General objectives of the program

The main objective of doctoral studies is to train doctors in advanced research of quality. To that end, the goals are:

- Incorporation of doctoral students to a research group.
- Expanding capacities to acquire an intensive specialization in the different directions provided by the research lines defined in the program.
- Enhance the initiative to develop research projects with the methodology and scientific principles proper to the line where doctoral students conducted their investigation.
- Achieve general skills related to the ability of personal and group work, participation in research projects, management of bibliographic databases, etc.
- Realization of the doctoral thesis

Procedimientos, requisitos y criterios específicos de admisión al programa, así como de valoración de los méritos de las personas candidatas.

Having obtained a minimum of 60 credits in official postgraduate programs or have an official title of master, as long as the student completes a minimum of 300 credits in all the university, graduate and postgraduate, studies.

To formalize the request for admission it will be necessary to deliver the application form, duly completed, to the Doctorate Commission. If necessary, specific documentation required by the Commission will be also provided.

The application must include the student's personal data, that of his future thesis director, and the description of the proposed thesis project. It will be signed by the student and with the approval of the Director.

Complements específics de formació en recerca, a cursar en màsters de la UB, que es considerin necessaris i activitats que hauran de seguir-se durant el període de recerca (seminaris, cursos metodològics o altres activitats formatives programades)

Doctoral training is essentially based on tutelary research (completion of the doctoral thesis). It can be supplemented with an offer of conferences or seminars in the areas linked to the research programme organized by the research group and/or the department.
