MSc Business Research
PhD Business
MSc International Business
Executive MBA
The Universitat de Barcelona Business School is the centre for research, postgraduate and executive education in business at the Faculty of Economics and Business at the University of Barcelona.

The University of Barcelona's Graduate Programme in Business has been developed for students who intend to pursue an international research career. The programme comprises a master's degree (MSc in Business Research) and a Business PhD programme. These two programmes can be completed separately if the student meets the necessary requirements.

Our professional programmes offer graduates and professionals opportunities to advance in their careers. The Master in International Business offers students advanced knowledge of basic aspects on how to manage an international company in the era of globalisation. The Executive MBA (EMBA) provides experienced professionals with a broad point of view in management, business managerial skills and techniques in the current competitive, increasingly changing and complex environment.

The University of Barcelona is the top Southern European University in the QS World University Rankings. Moreover, it is one of the largest economics and business faculties in Catalonia and one of the faculties belonging to the Barcelona Knowledge Campus, the most active "Campus of International Excellence" in Spain. Students enrolled in our programmes can attend frequent seminars and talks by some of the world's top academics and professionals in the heart of the vibrant city of Barcelona.
Established in 1450, the University of Barcelona is the main public university in Catalonia, offering the widest and most complete range of subjects. Moreover, it is one of the largest research centres in Europe, both in terms of the research programmes offered and the level of excellence achieved.

The UB is involved in various international university networks, including the Coimbra Group and the League of European Research Universities (LERU), in which the UB is the only Spanish institution.

Today, the University offers programmes to some 65,000 students and employs more than 5,000 lecturers and researchers on six university campuses. The UB’s Faculty of Economics and Business is home to around 8,000 students and 400 full-time lecturers and researchers and it publishes some 400 journal articles each year. The Faculty is a leading centre for teaching and research and forms part of an internationally recognised hub of business research in the Barcelona area.

At UB Business School we believe a healthy business requires a healthy society. We therefore educate citizens who value local and international societal needs and contribute to sustainable business environments.

The MSc in Business Research is a one-year programme which provides students with advanced training in the research skills, techniques and methodologies to conduct their own research in business. The programme can also be taken part-time over two years. The programme is intended for students with an academic, professional and, above all, research interest in the general field of business.

The programme consists of 60 credits of taught modules, including four compulsory subjects (30 credits) and eighteen elective subjects (30 credits). The academic year is divided into two semesters, which cover the period allocated for the Master’s thesis.

Compulsory subjects are instrumental and methodological while elective subjects allow students to focus on aspects that interest them.

Students who successfully complete the master will have developed the knowledge and skills to begin the preparation of a doctoral thesis and may therefore request admission to the PhD in Business. This is one of the most popular career choices for MSc in Business Research graduates.

These elective courses are divided into six areas:

- Strategy and Entrepreneurship
- Technology and Operations Management
- Accounting
- Finance
- Marketing
- General Management

Attainment of the MSc degree also prepares students for careers in research and policymaking in the public and private sectors.

The Career Services Office organises a vast number of events, some of them specially designed for the master’s students in Business.

PhD in Business

The PhD in Business is a unique programme within the Catalan university system that enables students to carry out high-level research activities in business and management. All supervisors are expert researchers and regular contributors to leading business and management journals. Throughout the programme, doctoral students will take part in various additional activities, which include research seminars, workshops and courses.

PhD students are encouraged to conduct research as a visiting student at other universities or research centers throughout the world. Research stays longer than three months may be recognized with the International doctoral certification in the doctoral degree.

Recent host institutions are HEC Montréal, Durham University, University of Chile, Monterrey Institute of Technology and Higher Education, University of Minho, Arizona State University...

The programme is specifically intended for students seeking to embark on an international career in research. After successful completion of the programme, new PhD holders will be able to work as academics in universities, business schools or research centres. However, the academic arena is not only the career opportunity for students. The doctoral programme in Business also prepares them to work in fields like consulting.

Career opportunities

At present, alumni of the doctoral programme in Business are working as lecturers and researchers in places such as the EADA Business School, the Polytechnic University of Catalonia, the Autonomous University of Barcelona, the EAE Business School, the University of Chile, the University of Veracruz and the Technological University of Panama. Other alumni hold executive positions in companies like Bunge, Grupo Catalana Occidente and CaixaBank or hold analyst positions at international institutions such as the International Labour Organisation (ILO).

Master/MSc in International Business

The Master’s Degree in International Business is an official one-year programme that aims to train specialists in global business management and covers the fields of finance and accounting, marketing, operations, human resources and strategic management.

Globalisation of the economy is a tangible reality nowadays. Hence the need for companies to develop a strategy for internationalization in order to safeguard their competitiveness in global environments. In this sense the Master’s Degree in International Business arises from the need to train future managers in worldwide companies operating at an international level.

The Master’s Degree in International Business offers students advanced knowledge of basic aspects on how to manage an international company. The programme consists of 60 credits given throughout two semesters (an academic term), namely: 32.5 credits in compulsory subjects, 17.5 credits in elective subjects and 10 Master’s thesis credits.

This programme contributes in a decisive way to a wider specialisation for graduates in International Business, Management and Business Administration, and such like, who have acquired a more generalised training during their studies. The skills that students develop with this Master’s Degree in International Business are substantially those of an advanced post-graduate level. This training is complemented by applying these skills to the analysis and resolution of practical cases which might arise during their professional activity. The studies focus on a participatory methodology which addresses different situations that are at all times applicable to the reality of the company.

Once the programme is achieved the student will reach an academic level that will allow him or her a solid placement in their specific fields as general manager, marketing manager, operations manager, human resources manager or managing director in an international corporation.

Executive MBA

The Executive MBA is a face-to-face programme taught over a single academic year, from October to July, which provides experienced professionals (entrepreneurs, businesspeople, general managers and middle-management staff in any company area) with a comprehensive, integrated understanding of the management techniques and executive skills involved in business organisation and administration in today’s complex, competitive and dynamic market.

The objective of this programme is to provide training that enhances the careers of the new leaders needed in today’s society. Our teaching staff comprises renowned university professors and working professionals with long and successful track records. Our methodology is practical, active and highly participatory, using case studies, debates, tutorial sessions, expert lectures and simulations. The structure of this demanding Executive MBA is broken down into nine modules, which will ultimately lead students through the completion of a successful business plan.

Whether you aim to reach leadership roles in your organisation or expand beyond your technical specialisation, the Executive MBA will allow you to take a step forward in your career.

Programme content

The programme consists of 60 credits divided in nine different modules divided into subjects. The nine modules are: Management, Financial-Economic, Legal, Skills, Operations, Marketing, Human Resources, Praxis and Business Plan.

The methodology that defines the Executive MBA programme is highly participatory in nature. It builds on the contributions of business professionals (executives and consultants) as well as the input of renowned academics.
