Intern at Lundbeck Corporate Communication and Public Affairs Department - Advocacy

Description
The Reputation and Advocacy team at Lundbeck is looking for two full time interns for a 6 months unpaid internship between 1 February and 31 July 2018. In Reputation and Advocacy, our work ranges from implementing advocacy strategies to supporting affiliates around the world in preparing their markets for new product launches. Therefore we need two highly skilled interns to join our dynamic and international team. The internship should be relevant for your current studies.

Your job and responsibilities
You will join the Corporate Communication and Public Affairs department and will support the Advocacy team's daily work. Your tasks will include:

- Supporting Lundbeck’s advocacy and partnership programs
- Developing content for social media channels
- Supporting event organization and communication campaigns to mark different awareness days
- Updating databases and monitoring
- Drafting of briefing and communication materials i.e. factsheets and position papers for affiliates
- Ad hoc administrative support, such as but not limited to contracts, handling of invoices, assisting with budgeting system, travel planning, purchasing etc.

We offer
You will be part of a global pharmaceutical company, which discovers, develops, manufactures and distributes medicines for people with psychiatric and neurological disorders. You will get hands-on experience with public affairs and advocacy and will take part in the interactions with stakeholders. Your job is based in Lundbeck headquarters in Copenhagen and you will also be involved in the international parts of the business. It will be possible to get help for your university assignments that are due as part of the internship.

Qualifications
- You are currently studying for your master degree or are at the final part of your bachelor degree in political science, marketing, communication, socioeconomics, business administration, public health/health policy studies or similar
- You have perfect written and oral English skills
- You have an interest in health and an understanding of partnership programs
- You are highly driven and ambitious as well as able to multitask with short deadlines
- You have a good teamwork spirit and an understanding of an intercultural business setting
- You are structured, flexible, focused on quality and have a service-minded attitude
- You have strong communication and interpersonal skills

Further information
For further information, please visit our website and/or contact Giorgio Malvermi at gmal@lundbeck.com.

Your application
Please click on this link to apply for the job. Applications must be received in English no later than 5 November.
Intern at Lundbeck Corporate Communication and Public Affairs Department - Communication

Description
The Reputation and Advocacy team at Lundbeck is looking for one full time intern for a 6 months’ unpaid internship between 1 February and 31 July 2018. We are a dynamic and international team in need of an ambitious and highly motivated intern to support our efforts in strengthening Lundbeck's relationship with the psychiatry and neurology community.

The internship should be relevant for your current studies.

Your job and key responsibilities
You will be working as a member of the Corporate Communication and Public Affairs department and will support the department’s daily work.

Your tasks will include:
- Supporting the organization and coordination of Lundbeck's annual One Voice Patient Advocacy Summit that brings together 69 people, 36 patient organizations and advocacy groups from 18 different countries and 6 international organizations
- Supporting the daily work in the team, including communication and analytical tasks
- Ad hoc administrative support, such as but not limited to, contracts, handling of invoices, follow up on budget and costs, purchasing etc.

We offer
You will be part of a global pharmaceutical company, which discovers, develops, manufactures and distributes medicine for people with brain diseases. You will get hands-on experience with reputation and advocacy. Your job is based in Lundbeck’s headquarters in Copenhagen and you will be involved in the international parts of the business. It will also be possible to get time and support for the academic assignment.

Qualifications
- You are a current Bachelor or a Master’s degree student in public administration, political science, marketing, communication, socioeconomics, public health/health policy studies or similar
- You have an interest in health and an understanding of the NGO world
- You have an intercultural understanding and preferably an international experience
- You are open-minded and interested in administrative tasks
- You have strong interpersonal skills and are a team player with a good sense of humor
- You are structured, flexible and focused on quality
- You are fluent in English and have strong written and oral communication skills

Further information
For further information, please contact Giorgio Malvermi at gmal@lundbeck.com. Your application and CV should not be sent via email - please use below link for your application. We also recommend that you have a look at our website.

Your application
Please click on the link below to apply for the job. Applications must be received no later than 05 November 2017.