HOSPITAL MATERIAL CULTURE IN THE MIDDLE AND EARLY MODERN AGES

concepts and meanings

School of Arts and Humanities,
University of Lisbon

15-17 APRIL 2024

OFICIAL PROGRAM

The everyday life in a hospital has always been related to different objects and practices that make up the material expressions of established relationships and the very functioning of such places. In its spatial or topographical, chronological and historical and anthropological dimensions, material culture is related to the purpose and meaning that objects have for a particular people or culture and is essential in defining a society's cultural identity.
