

Three point covers and height functions

Razvan Litcanu

The existence of a cover of the projective line with at most three branching points characterizes the fact that a curve can be defined over a number field. We shall discuss arithmetic properties of such curves approached using the invariants of these covers.