Newton-Okounkov body and local positivity

Alex Küronya

Goethe Universität - Frankfurt am Main

Newton-Okounkov bodies are a convex geometric tool to capture the vanishing behaviour of all sections of all multiples of a given divisor at the same time. We will present the beginnings of the theory along with some applications to local positivity while concentrating on the surface case.