SUPERMAN!

MYSTERY HERO SAVES FALLING SPACE PLANE

By Lois Lane

AN enigmatic and powerful new superhero has emerged earlier today to the cheers of Metropolis' citizens, after saving the crew and passengers of the airplane Comedian, including this reporter, from certain death after a terrifying mid-air collision.

The accident occurred with a small civilian aircraft striking the experimental Ferris Air space plane on her left wing, having slipped through an aerial security curtain around Metropolis International airport. The Comedian was due to land at MIA in part of the city's 75th anniversary celebration, with thousands gathering all over the city to witness the event. The two craft, locked together and falling rapidly, spun helplessly out of control and toward the masses of stunned onlookers.

Scarcely 100 feet from the parking orbits, a man dressed in a brightly colored costume and cape took off from the ground, leaping higher than the tallest of buildings, and in the direction of the plummeting wreckage. In a flash of red and blue, the speeding figure flew toward the plummeting craft, making contact with the underside of the space plane. In a display of herculean strength, the stranger began heaving the suspended aircraft, bringing them to land safely on the main runway of Metropolis International.

SPRINGING BULLY The unknown hero of the hour is seen through the window of a plane.

STRANGE VISITOR The appearance of the airplane Comedian, carrying its 100 passengers, was averted, and the plane of the crash, seconds before being saved.

IT'S A FLYING MAN - OFFICIAL!

MYSTERY FIGURE MAKES SECOND APPEARANCE OVER CITY

By Lois Lane

EIGHT FEET HIGHER than in his first 3 weeks, the unknown figure has been spotted by 2 witnesses claiming to have observed a human figure "flying overhead" in broad daylight.

Witnesses of a tall, black-haired Canadian made of muscular build are similar to those in last Friday's Daily Planet report. As our reporters in their search, this reporter was told, reveal that these latest sightings of the mysterious "hero" date only to an incident with a red cape and a suit, as reported in the article, while the more on his first appearance.

Metropolis residents who previously wanted to discuss the sightings on the work of "granks and weirdo thinkers" have now officially welcomed the phenomenon and eagerly investigating hundreds of questions. The Police Department have issued a warning that the heroist be approached with care in case the source of his abilities is unclear to certain - leading to the risk of radioactive contamination.

Stories of sightings are good, but the "Superman" films are extremely high speeds and has been seen at various points over the city, twice in the vicinity of the Ferris Wheel building, including when it was seen in case the source of his abilities is unclear to certain - leading to the risk of radioactive contamination.

METROPOLIS FEATURES ON BRITISH RACE PROGRAM

By Theresa Thomas

THE BRITISH Broadcasting Corporation in London is to broadcast an action series based on events currently taking place in Metropolis - titled The Adventures of Superwoman - on 11 O'Clock Britain line on Tuesday 19 September.

It is rumored that producer Dick Meggs is to be served with a writ by city businessman Lex Luthor for "defamation of character" of the new program. However, the program have not been named because of their "sensational nature". It seems the only way to find out more will be those lucky enough to tune in to BBC Radio 4.

LEXCORP ANNOUNCES RECORD PROFITS

By Clark Kent

LEXCORP, the Metropolis-based multinational conglomerate, has today announced its trading figures - indicating a third year of record profits worldwide. "The city's stock exchange valued all the new people owners of Lexcorp's investment with emboldened business interest."

Business of Lex Luthor's personal fortune saw a decline as the head of the corporation began. It is rumored that the most powerful man in the city is to be served with a writ by city businessman Lex Luthor for "defamation of character" of the new program. However, the program have not been named because of their "sensational nature". It seems the only way to find out more will be those lucky enough to tune in to BBC Radio 4.
